

FULL-TIME MINISTRY REFLECTIONS

What are some highlights of serving as a Youth worker?

Serving alongside the youth has been exciting. A key highlight has been seeing their lives transform as they make decisions to follow Jesus. Watching a young person change from someone who only bothers about fun and games into someone who is passionate about the things of God has been a privilege.

A second highlight was seeing the youths step up to lead others as well. This year especially has been a challenging time, and a greater number of leaders were needed as group sizes shrank due to COVID-19 restrictions. It has been encouraging to see the youths step up and look beyond their own needs to how they can now care for others around them and lead others to Christ.

A third highlight was simply the opportunity to dedicate my time to serving and ministering to the youths. I am blessed to have the time and capacity to be intentional with them, and to plan and prepare for ministry in a way that would not be possible had I not been serving full-time.

What did you not expect from serving in full-time ministry?

I initially did not expect the level of freedom I have in terms of how I can serve and be involved. The church leadership has been a blessing in granting liberties to the Youth Ministry and myself in the way it is run, and the kind of activities we can organize. There were no stifling regulations or bureaucratic red-tape to navigate. Instead, the leadership has been very supportive, and offered valuable insights for the ministry as well as prioritized our personal spiritual growth.

What keeps you motivated for full-time ministry?

Full-time ministry has its challenges, though these are minor compared to the peace and joy I have in serving exactly where God has called me to serve. And of course, the joy of seeing the youths own and live out their personal faith is extremely rewarding.

What vision has God given you for the Youth Ministry?

My dream is that our church will have a vibrant and faithful youth group, where youths can own and live out their faith. This in turn would empower them to lead their generation to life-changing relationships with Jesus Christ. I believe that as we continually invest in the lives of youths through intentional discipleship, as well as create platforms for engagement and growth, they can be gospel lights to others in Singapore and beyond.

• EXPOSITORY BIBLE STUDY – BOOK OF MARK

This Tuesday (5 January), we will be examining the question about fasting in a new passage, Mark 2:18–22. Another ground of complaint against Jesus was the failure of His disciples to keep the fast days which pious Jews observed. Jesus explained by giving two parables, the parable of the bridegroom and the wedding guests and the parable of the wine skins. The teaching of both parables is that the new life of redemption in Christ cannot be confined to the old legalistic forms.
