INTO A LIFE-CHANGING
RELATIONSHIP WITH JESUS CHRIST.

It Takes a Church to Raise a Christian

Article by Pastor Paul Choo
Founding Pastor

The saying "It takes a village to raise a child" is an age-old truth. Children do not grow in isolation; they are shaped by the people around them. So too does a Christian. A strong faith is cultivated not in isolation, but within a supportive spiritual family.

The Power of Community

Education doesn't stop at the classroom—just as spiritual growth doesn't stop at sermons. While many assume knowing more about God equals maturity, information alone doesn't transform. Real growth happens in community, where believers learn through shared life, service, and encouragement—much like a village where people grow through both instruction and interaction.

Jesus' Model for Discipleship

Jesus didn't teach through lectures alone—He invited His disciples to follow Him, observe His life, and learn through daily experiences. They heard His words and saw His example, and in doing so, were transformed. Likewise, Paul urged believers to “Follow me, as I follow Christ” (1 Cor 11:1), reminding us that faith is not just taught but caught through life-on-life discipleship.

The Danger of Isolation

Modern society, with its emphasis on individualism, often leads Christians to believe they can grow spiritually on their own. However, Scripture warns against this mindset. Proverbs 13:20 states, "Whoever walks with the wise becomes wise, but the companion of fools will suffer harm."

Likewise, 1 Corinthians 15:33 reminds us, "Do not be deceived: 'Bad company corrupts good morals.'"

Just as a child is shaped by their environment, so too is a believer influenced by the people they surround themselves with. If we are constantly immersed in a culture of materialism, fear, and selfishness, it will inevitably impact our faith. However, if we choose to invest in godly relationships and commit to a spiritual family, we will be strengthened in our walk with Christ.

“God designed His people to grow together, to sharpen one another, and to bear one another’s burdens. The local church provides the support, encouragement, and accountability needed for spiritual growth. Committing to a church community requires intentionality.”

Commitment to the Church

The church is not merely a place to attend once a week; it is a family to belong to. Christianity was never meant to be lived in isolation. God designed His people to grow together, to sharpen one another, and to bear one another's burdens. The local church provides the support, encouragement, and accountability needed for spiritual growth. Committing to a church community requires intentionality. It means showing up, building relationships, and being willing to learn from others. It means serving, even when it's inconvenient, and loving, even when it's difficult. Just as a child flourishes when surrounded by a caring village, a Christian thrives when deeply rooted in a godly community.

Conclusion

Growing in faith is not a solo journey—it takes a spiritual village. Jesus modeled discipleship through life-on-life relationships, and Scripture affirms the necessity of learning from and walking with other believers. If we want to grow strong in our faith, we must invest in the right community, commit to a church family, and be willing to learn from those who are following Christ.

May we choose to be part of God's family, learning and growing together, as we journey toward Christlikeness.
