The Care Group: A Microcosm Of The Church

Article by Jawn Lim
Care Group Leader

A microcosm encapsulates in miniature the characteristics of something much larger. A Care Group is like a miniature church. Many Care Groups make up the larger community of a local church. By extension, as the church is seen as a body with many members (1 Cor 12:12–27), a Care Group may be likened to a healthy microcosm—made up of many connected individuals. Relationships within a Care Group are vital to the church’s spiritual health, reflecting the biblical call to practice the ‘one another’ commands. Of the many found in Scripture, we’ll focus on those most relevant to Care Groups.

“to stir one another in love and good works,
to not neglect meeting together, and to encourage one another”

Not Just a Club, But Christ-Centered

Unlike a club that gathers around common interests, a Care Group is centered on Christ. We gather in smaller settings than Sunday services to consider how to “stir up one another to love and good works, not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another...” (Heb 10:24–25). These three imperatives—to stir one another in love and good works, to not neglect meeting together, and to encourage one another—are difficult to fulfill through Sunday services or private devotions alone.

While corporate worship and personal devotion are essential, Care Groups provide the intimate space where believers can truly live out the “one another” commands.

More Than Fellowship, It’s Family

Brothers and sisters make up a family. Likewise, a Care Group is not merely a club where membership offers privileges; it also brings responsibility. It’s about sacrifice, service, and love.

As our Lord said in John 13:34–35, “A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another: just as I have loved you, you also are to love one another.” The Lord didn’t love superficially or in passing—He loved intentionally. He spent time, taught patiently, and walked with His disciples in a nurturing manner. Care Groups reflect Christlikeness and are meant to love as He did. Our expectations must follow Scripture, not personal preference.

Hospitality Without Grumbling

In 1 Peter 4:9, we are exhorted, “Show hospitality to one another without grumbling.” How easy it is to appear friendly while harboring silent resentment! In Care Groups, there may be moments when words offend or situations unsettle us. Yet we are called to pursue love and peace from a pure heart—not a complaining spirit. Yes, we still sin. But the Lord desires that we practice the “one another” commands.

Loving Like Christ—Openly, Patiently, Graciously

Obedience to these commands requires a willingness to be vulnerable—to be known and to know others. It means choosing to love one another as Christ has loved us. Openly. Patiently. Mercifully. Graciously. Let our Care Groups reflect that love—Christ’s love. Not only in word, but in the way we live and relate to one another.

Come experience warmth and friendship in a  small community today.
