Leading generations

INTO A LIFE-CHANGING
RELATIONSHIP WITH JESUS CHRIST.

7 Questions With Our New Shepherd

As we prepare for a leadership transition this July, we sat down with the incoming shepherd (Brother Hanniel Sinon) of our Filipino congregation—son of our outgoing Shepherd (Pastor Nazario Sinon) —to hear his heart, vision, and hopes for the road ahead. Here are his reflections:

1. What was your initial reaction when you sensed God calling you into full-time ministry?

Full-time gospel ministry is unconventional. It must be birthed out of prayer and a deep desire to serve God. For me, it wasn't a big surprise—this is what I've longed to do, and what I believe God has led me into for this season of my life.

2. What were some of the biggest struggles you faced stepping into this role?

Honestly, I'm not sure yet. Everything still feels new and exciting. My hope is that this passion and joy in serving God and His people won't fade, even as the years go by.

3. How do you feel about stepping into the role your father has faithfully served in for so many years?

I don't think anyone can truly say they're fully prepared. I know this role comes with its challenges. But I'm encouraged knowing I stand on the shoulders of giants—not just my father, but others who've labored faithfully before me. Gospel ministry isn't about chasing novelty, but building on the faithful groundwork already laid.

4. What valuable lessons have you learned from your father's leadership?

Dad has always been a hardworking and hands-on shepherd—a man devoted both to his study and to people. I admire how approachable and down-to-earth he is. Those traits, I believe, are vital for effective gospel ministry.

5. What is your vision for the Filipino congregation in the coming years?

Migrant ministries are often transitory—many eventually return home. But our goal is to be a home away from home. I envision the Filipino congregation as a gospel oasis—a place where people from all walks of life come together, not just because they're Filipino, but because of Jesus.

6. What are some key areas where you feel the congregation needs growth or encouragement?

We need to remain focused on the gospel. Many among us face competing priorities—earning a living, caring for loved ones back home—but these cannot be our only focus. We want to help one another navigate this tension well. Also, we hope to be more outward-looking, with a heart to serve the estimated 200,000 Filipinos living and working here.

7. What are some prayer requests you'd like the church to keep in mind?

Thank you for praying!

- Pray for a smooth transition and for me to grow in equipping myself for this role.
- Pray that I will lead with integrity in a time when leadership failure is all too common.
- Pray for God's protection over my marriage.
- Pray for my father as he enters a new season of rest with family and grandchildren.
- Most importantly, pray that our congregation would rally not around any leader, but around the gospel.
