A GOSPEL-SHAPED 2026

Simon Lim

Care Group Leader

*“The LORD will fulfil his purpose for me;
your steadfast love, O LORD, endures forever. Do not forsake the work of your hands.”*

Psalm 138:8

A new year often feels like a blank page. Full of hopes, dreams, and plans. Yet for many of us, January also brings pressure: the pressure to do better. We make resolutions, pursue self-improvement, and try to take control of what lies ahead.

But followers of Christ are invited to begin the year differently: not by striving harder, but by trusting deeper. Instead of asking, “How can I change myself?” we ask, “How can the gospel shape me this year?”

When we reframe the year through God’s providence and grace, our resolutions become more than wishful thinking. They become gospel-shaped habits that endure.

Providence: Embrace the Fog, Trust the Guide

A new year always comes with uncertainty. We do not know what 2026 will hold, what joys or trials may come. Yet uncertainty is not a reason for fear, because we know the One who holds the year.

“The heart of man plans his way, but the LORD establishes his steps.”

Proverbs 16:9

Rather than relying on predictions or placing our confidence in our plans, we rest in God's providence. The fog ahead may be thick, but our Guide is faithful. He never loses His way, and we can trust Him even when we cannot see the road before us.

Posture: Grace, Not Grind

Many people begin the year trying to prove their worth through effort and performance. But in Christ, our identity is already secure. We do not work for God's approval; we work from it.

The gospel frees us from the grind. Change is not about self-improvement, but Spirit-empowered transformation. When our posture is rooted in grace, growth becomes an act of worship rather than a source of weariness.

Priority: Fewer Goals, Deeper Growth

Not every goal deserves equal attention. Instead of long lists of resolutions, consider asking:

“What one to three spiritual priorities will help me grow closer to Christ this year?”

Perhaps it is cultivating daily communion with God through Scripture and prayer. Perhaps it is extending forgiveness, or serving faithfully in a ministry. When our goals are few and Christ-centred, our focus deepens and so does our faith.

People: Walk With Others

We were never meant to grow alone. Resolutions wither in isolation but flourish in community. Share your spiritual goals with a trusted friend, mentor, discipleship group, or small group. Invite them to pray with you and walk alongside you in accountability.

“Let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works, not neglecting to meet together... but encouraging one another.”

Hebrews 10:24–25

When we walk together, we experience God’s grace through the encouragement, care, and loving correction of His people.

Perspective: New Joys and New Sorrows

Every year brings both laughter and tears. In His wisdom, God will mix both into 2026—for our good and for His glory.

Decide now how you will respond:

- When blessings come, give thanks.
- When hardships come, trust His heart.

The gospel assures us that whatever the year holds, Christ holds us fast.

“As we step into 2026, we do not need perfect plans we need a perfect Saviour.”

As we step into 2026, we do not need perfect plans we need a perfect Saviour. Let us begin the year resting in God’s providence, standing firmly on His grace, and walking faithfully with His people.

May our lives this year be shaped not by prediction or pressure, but by the peace and power of the gospel.
