ORDERING LIFE BY ALLEGIANCE: NOT URGENCY

Article by Elder Frederick Chew
Chairman, Church Committee

Many of us feel stretched thin: emails, deadlines, family, church. Scripture offers more than a technique for balance; it offers a Person to follow and a way to order life under Him. In Christ, our goal is not an equal slice for everything, but faithfulness in every sphere because He is Lord over all.

“Your primary calling is to belong to Jesus and walk as His disciple.”

Primary and Secondary Callings

Your primary calling is to belong to Jesus and walk as His disciple. Everything else—work, marriage, parenting, church life, friendship—are secondary callings that serve that first allegiance. When the primary is neglected, success in the secondary is still “no count” before God; when the primary is kept first, the secondary finds its proper weight and joy.

Why “Balance” Isn’t Always the Target

Christians are not chasing a perfect ledger of hours; we are learning to live a whole life under one Master. We have one Boss—Jesus—and we aim to be found faithful across our roles. Some callings are fixed (e.g., spouse, parent, committed church member); others are discretionary (job choices, extra responsibilities), and must be weighed in light of the fixed ones and our walk with God. Imagine your life as a jar: if you pour in sand first (all the 101 tasks that clutter our lives), the big priorities that matter to God (represented by tennis balls) won't fit. Hence the need for us to slot in the tennis balls first, before pouring in the sand.

Gentle, Practical Helps

1) Schedule your priorities

Decide what truly matters this week (the “tennis balls”) and place them first—God, family, people, calling — then fit the other things around them.

2) Learn to say “no”

Some good things will crowd out the best things. It's okay—indeed wise—to decline what undermines fixed callings or empties your walk with God. Sell your skill, not your soul.

3) Rest and renew

Let a “busy season” remain a season, not a lifestyle. Sleep, exercise, relationships, worship, fellowship and retreats help us reset for faithfulness.

4) Reinforce your calling

Where possible, look for complementarity—align weekday skills with avenues of service and growth in the church.

5) Keep your eye on long-term faithfulness

Short-term wins aren’t worth it if they erode your primary calling or the people entrusted to you.

A Different Spirit towards Work

Because Jesus is Lord, we aim to shine where He places us - working diligently, caring for people, and carrying ourselves with a Christlike posture. This is the quiet, compelling witness of the gospel in the workplace. At the same time, we carry out our duties at work bearing in mind our primary and secondary callings.

Brethren, the Lord is not asking you to juggle perfectly. He invites you to seek Him first, then to carry each role: at home, church, and work unto Him. As we keep first things first, we will find that His grace is enough, His joy real, and our labour however ordinary, pleasing in His sight.
